Optimism
Rules in Glendale
Business and Realty Circles

OPTIMISM is in the air among the realty men of Glendale. You may talk with any of them and you hear the same story—big business after the vacation period is over.

As is always the case during July and August, there has been some let-up in real estate transfers but not nearly as much this year as has been true of previous years.

That this is true is proved by the way the permits have held up during July. August gives promise of running far ahead of August, 1922. As the belief in big business to commence next month and run throughout the year, is universal there must be something besides the desire to speculate.

THE railroad are still reporting heavy western travel and returning motorists report the roads fairly congested with automobiles headed our way.

The question that comes to our mind is how many of these newcomers will locate in Glendale?

It all depends on how many of them will be told the benefits we have to offer them. It may be by word of mouth, a letter or through advertising. The advertising campaign now being carried on by the Chamber of Commerce will undoubtedly bring a number as well as the advertising booklet they are mailing. It is fortunate that this campaign is under way but unfortunate that the appropriation is not many times larger.

THE Chamber of Commerce has given to the limit and if an additional amount is to be raised it will be necessary for all business houses to give their share.

THE best and surest way to increase business is through an increase of population.

Of course each individual business must solve its own problems but the increased population provides the means. The people now coming to Southern California to a great extent are open-minded and all we have to do to get them to Glendale is to convince them of the truth of our claims. This will not be a difficult matter for abundant proof of superiority are all around.

If every citizen would assume his share of the responsibility and write his friends or relatives about Glendale it would be a great help. One of the Chamber of Commerce advertisements or its booklet could be enclosed in the letter. If you have not already done your share, do it now for you will share in the gain and at the same time you will be doing a lasting service to your friend who locates here through your efforts.

26 PAY FOR VIOLATIONS OF TRAFFIC

Twenty-six motorists, residents of or visitors to Glendale, were fined $5 each by Judge Lowe this morning for parking in the street, outside of the machines that were located next to the curb, all of the offenses being committed on Brand boulevard between Broadway and Wilson, the latter part of last week.

These arrests were made by the local police department in its determination to keep the streets of the city clear, except for the machines that are parked at the curb. Many motorists of Glendale have been making it a practice to park two, three and even four deep on Brand between Broadway and Wilson, thereby making it difficult for other motorists to pass, according to Chief of Police Fraser.

WOMAN INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Mickey Whiting of Duchene, Utah, was injured at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the corner of Cerritos and San Fernando, when machines driven by V. C. Leopold, 134 South Alta street, Los Angeles, and Arnold Bertelsen of Duchene, collided.

HYPERION ROAD PLAN IS CHANGED

Beach Highway Not to

MEETING TONIGHT

Turns South at Eagle
Rock and Passes Around the City

The organization known as "The Santa Monica Board of Trade," which has been working to secure a more direct route between Santa Monica and the foothill cities, is to have a meeting tonight at the office of Mr. Castello at the corner of Gower and Santa Monica boulevard. L. T. Rowley of this city will attend and will endeavor to persuade other members of the chamber of commerce to accompany him.

He has been disappointed to learn that the route now being considered has departed from the original one and does not pass through Glendale at all. It turns south at central avenue in Eagle Rock and hence south to Glassell avenue, then to San Fernando road, crosses under the trestles of the P. E. R. R. Then striking Glendale boulevard and practically leaves Glendale off the route. In defense of this change, Mr. Rowley says the aim of the promoters has been to avoid traffic delays and get the tourists to Santa Monica in the quickest possible time. For that reason they are getting away from crowded city streets as much as possible.

Mr. Rowley still hopes a line which will serve Glendale can be carried through the notch in the hills near the end of the present Glendale boulevard bridge which opens into Hyperion avenue.

COMMUNITY BALL CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES SET

To Open Tuesday on the High School Field for
First Game

Games which are to determine the champions of the series of baseball games which have been played under the Community Service will be played Tuesday and Thursday evenings this week on the high school field by the city team, of which Mr. Westbrook is captain, and the night school team, headed by "Briek" Wilde. The team which wins two games out of three will secure the pennant and prize. A big crowd of baseball fans is expected out to witness the contests on the evenings mentioned.

If the games are tied, a third one will be played. The umpires have not yet been selected. A new series of ball games begins next week. Practically all the teams that have been playing have registered for the new tournament. There is still time, however, to organize new teams if the promoters will get busy and report to Director Ernest Tucker at the Chamber of Commerce.

OCCIDENTAL RANGE MAY COME TO CITY

While in San Francisco, Secretary E. F. Sanders called upon Messrs. Steiger and Kerr, manufacturers of the Occidental Range, who had at one time decided to locate a plant in Glendale. Since that time members of the Ingleside Chamber of Commerce have put up a hard fight to secure the industry for that city and it was almost when Mr. Sanders put in his appearance. He believes he has persuaded them to return to their first choice, as he has been commissioned by them to see what he can do in the way of securing a suitable site in the industrial district. Mr. and Mrs. Elwood, who are handling the Occidental range here, are very anxious to see the plant located here.

The company is fully financed, asking nothing of the city in the way of favors or investment, has been in business for 35 years, and if it comes to Glendale will employ about 75 men.

THE WEATHER
San Francisco: Fair tonight and Tuesday; moderate northwesterly winds.
Southern California: Fair tonight and Tuesday, except cloudy or foggy in morning near coast; moderate westerly winds.
Valleys: Fair and warmer tonight and Tuesday; moderate northerly winds.

C. OF C. TO PLAN FUNERAL TOKEN FOR HARDING SERVICES

A. Ferber, proprietor of a chain of dry goods stores, one of which is located in Glendale, has addressed a telegram to the Chamber of Commerce of this city proposing that Glendale send a funeral wreath for the services over the body of Warren G. Harding on Friday at Marion. O. Mr. Ferber offers to contribute $20 toward the offering. The matter will be taken up at the meeting of chamber directors Tuesday night.

FUNERAL TRAIN IS IN THE EAST

Due in Chicago at 3:30
This Afternoon in Long Flight

[By Associated Press]
CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Thousands of men and women lined the railroad tracks today as the funeral train bearing the body of President Harding sped toward Washington, where the nation's official representatives and many of its citizens, as well as emissaries of foreign governments, are to pay their last tribute to the distinguished dead.

The train was nearly an hour behind the time it had been expected to traverse Illinois.

ON BOARD PRESIDENT HARDING'S FUNERAL TRAIN AT OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 6.—(By Associated Press) The Trans-Missouri west has paid its final tribute to the memory of Warren G. Harding and the east was given its first opportunity today as the funeral train bearing his body from San Francisco to Washington sped steadily towards the national capital.

The route followed today led through the states of Iowa and Illinois. Arrival within the city limits of Chicago was scheduled for 3:30 p. m. (central standard time) and after a short pause there the train will speed onward around the tip of Lake Michigan and through Indiana.

Although it was in the early hours this morning when the funeral train reached Omaha there were thousands of persons who had come to watch for it. As in Omaha and in other places where stops were made, floral pieces also were offered, thus making it possible for those attending to such affairs on the train to keep the bier always decorated with fresh flowers.

Omaha was represented by about 20,000 of its citizens with bowed and bared heads as the special pulled into the union station at 2:50 o'clock. Thousands were unable to get past the iron gates separating the station waiting room from the tracks, but they peered eagerly through the enclosure, while thousands of others stood in nearby elevated streets until the train pulled out at 3:25 a. m.

At Council Bluffs the train did not stop but slowed down, from 5000 to 10,000 persons viewing its passing. Knights Templar there in full uniform uncovered and saluted and Boy Scouts handed into the moving train a tribute to wild flowers. The American Legion, 150 strong, was present.

GLENDALE ASSEMBLES TO DO REVERENCE TO MEMORY OF THE LATE PRESIDENT

Congregational Church Is Filled During Union
Services of the People of the City, Called by Their Ministers

ALL PASTORS ARE PRESENT AT SERVICES

Rev. W. A. Brown, D. D. of Los Angeles, Delivers
Address in Which He Characterized Warren G.
Harding as Abou Ben Adam of His Day

A reverent audience which completely filled the Congregational church Sunday afternoon assembled for an impressive union service in memory of Warren G. Harding, the dead president of the United States.

Nearly all the pastors of the city were present and seated upon the platform, viz.: Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor of the church; Rev. E. E. Ford of the First Baptist church; Dr. H. C. Funk of the First Lutheran church; W. E. Edmonds of the Glendale Presbyterian church; Dr. H. C. Rasmus of the First Methodist church; Rev. Philip K. Kemp of St. Mark's Episcopal church, and Rev. Cowan who is supplying the Casa Verdugo Methodist church. The program was announced by Dr. Edmonds. Rev. E. E. Ford read the scripture lesson from the psalm beginning: "God is our refuge and strength."

The accompanying music was appropriate and beautiful. Miss Lilla Litch, organist of the church, played Chopin's funeral march with reverent dignity and sweetness, and also played an appropriate prelude and postlude. A quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cavannah, Mrs. Franklin Head, and Myron Carman sang "The Prayer," the congregation uniting in singing "Before Jehovah's Awful Throne" and "Nearer My God to Thee."

Rev. Funk played for the guidance of the new president, that the nation might be comforted, and that Mrs. Harding might be sustained in her great bereavement. Dr. Rasmus pronounced the benediction. "The Passing President and the Abiding Nation" was the theme of the address delivered by Rev. William A. Brown, D.D., pastor of the University Methodist church of Los Angeles, in which he called Warren G. Harding the Abou Ben Adam of his day whose name would lead all the rest. He declared there has been a gracious providence in all our long history. Said he: "It was a gracious providence which led our fathers and it is an astonishing fact that ever since our world has fashioned after ours, America was God's great challenge call to all the peoples of the world."

"The gracious providence of God has been especially manifested in the great leaders we have had throughout our career. Warren G. Harding was a gracious providence in the kind of man God gave us in our hour of great need. God's great gift to us in those days following the war. Clemenceau said: 'It was easy to win the war. It will not be so easy to win peace.' "President Harding came to his great work in difficult times. Leadership across the seas have not yet found solid footing for their feet. God gave us this towering personality whom most of us have not yet discovered as a kindly man, with poise, sanity of judgment, consciousness of his own integrity, a mighty, immovable man of office."

"We are too close to him to appreciate him now. We are not met here for words of fulsome praise but just to express our admiration for Warren G. Harding and thanksgiving to God for giving us this great man."

"What of the man who has come to take his place? He was not of our choosing and is the least known of any man who has ever assumed his high office, but I believe with all my soul that the providence of our God is more manifest in America today than at any time since it was discovered. God has given us Calvin Coolidge to be president of the United States. He more than any I know is the man best fitted to carry on the great program of Warren G. Harding who has passed away. He is new England's conscience incarnate. When we think what that means we can believe God has given us a great man for this high and holy office."

CALIFORNIA LEGIONNAIRES CALLED TO JOIN IN PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION ON WEDNESDAY

To All Legionnaires of California:
The President of the United States has passed into the great beyond, suddenly and unexpectedly, and the American Legion mourns with the entire nation in his passing.

President and man, statesman and friend, Warren G. Harding, American, has gone. As truly as any soldier who laid down his life in the smoke and flames of war, he died on the field of battle; not the battle of war, but the battle of peace and good will, whose path is even more difficult.

To Mrs. Harding, his beloved and devoted comrade of all his joys and all his sorrows, we offer the heartfelt sympathy of the men of the World War in her hour of grief.

All members of all local posts of the Department of California are requested to carefully watch newspaper announcements, and on the day of the funeral of the beloved past commander-in-chief, to assemble with the people of their respective communities, colors appropriately draped, and in appropriate ceremonies and services pay silent tribute to his memory. All colors and club rooms should be immediately draped.

SETH MILLINGTON, JR.,
Department Commander.

San Francisco, August 3, 1923.
Attest: Morgan Keaton, Department Adjutant.

EVERY LEGION POST TO SOUND TAPS AT BURIAL OF HARDING

(By United Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 6.—Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the American Legion, today ordered Legion posts in every city and town to sound taps as the late President Harding's body is lowered into the grave at Marion Friday.

The action was taken on suggestion of the Washington News. Bolles also urged all citizens to observe a five minute period of silence.

GLENDALE MAY PLAY WINTER BALL

Proposed to for Southern California League for Daily Game

DISCUSSION IS HELD

To Follow the Coast
Series and End in March

Glendale may join the proposed Southern California winter baseball league, according to an announcement made this morning. Such an invitation has been extended to this city and whether or not the offer is accepted remains with the officials, and the leading business men and residents of this city.

It is proposed to start this league in November of each year shortly after the Coast league concludes its games, and close it just prior to the opening of the Coast league in March. The games will be played each day of the week except Mondays.

The initial steps in the forming of this league were made at a meeting held in Los Angeles, Saturday afternoon. It was called by Mr. Spalding, prominent in western baseball circles, and Frank Clark, present manager of the Pittsburgh "big league" team. The idea is to form a Class D league, which would afford an opportunity to young players, who are not quite ready for the Coast league, to show what they can do. The managers and captains of the Coast league teams would have time during the winter months to make the rounds of the winter league to pick out whatever players they wanted for their own teams. The teams in the proposed league would be limited to 14 men and the maximum salary limit would be $200 per month.

The cities that were represented at Saturday's meeting were as follows: Long Beach, Santa Ana, San Bernardino, Sawtelle, San Diego, San Pedro and Glendale. Among the "high lights" interested in the forming of this league and who were present at Saturday's meeting, were as follows: "Gavy" Travath of the Philadelphia National league; Joss Clark, Mr. Wayne, owner of the Salt Lake Coast league team, and Mr. Weber, secretary of the Los Angeles Coast league team.

When Mr. Sanders took the train to Glendale the Presidential train was standing alongside and he persuaded one of the train guards to permit him to inspect it. The observation section of the President's car had been fairly covered in greenery and flowers for the reception of the casket which was passed through the window.

So many property owners who had been assessed for the widening of Los Feliz road and not notified responded to a call for a meeting to consider a compromise that the session was held in Odd Fellows hall this morning at 11 o'clock, instead of in the office of Attorney Wende.

W. B. Chobe presided and a proposition from Steddom & Blanchard who own the claims to reduce the legal costs to an amount averaging about $14 was debated. Mr. Dutton and several others being in favor of fighting the matter, others wishing to clear up the obligation if it could be done at any reasonable figure. At the time the paper furnished half in the amount of $500, pending his hearing.

Glendale Athletic Club baseball team defeated the Santa Rita nine on Sunday in a hotly contested pitchers' battle on the Glendale grounds by a score of 5 to 3. Slim Harris, Glendale whirler, had perfect control and his curves were breaking nicely. Harris also featured in the third inning, hitting a nice one in right field, knocking in two runners. According to Charles Brice, manager, it was a hotly contested pitchers' battle in which Harris outshone Hernandez. City Manager Reeves halted the game for five minutes during the fourth inning in memory of President Harding.

SANDERS RETURNS FROM PALO ALTO

Secretary E. F. Sanders of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce returned this morning from attendance on the Chamber of Commerce Summer School for secretaries and boards of directors held last week at Palo Alto where he put in several strenuous days following a program which ran from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

He did not learn of the death of President Harding until Friday morning and then he left for San Francisco. He found the city practically prostrated by shock and grief. All business houses were closed and shutters tightly drawn, the flags had been taken down and replaced with the symbols of mourning.

It was to him a significant proof of the uncertainty of life to realize that at the hour when he had been expecting to participate in Glendale's welcome to President Harding, he was standing in the rotunda of the Palace Hotel in San Francisco with the dead body of the President lying in the presidential suite on a floor above.

When Mr. Sanders took the train to Glendale the Presidential train was standing alongside and he persuaded one of the train guards to permit him to inspect it. The observation section of the President's car had been fairly covered in greenery and flowers for the reception of the casket which was passed through the window.

Mrs. Baker Injured In Beach Auto Crash

Mrs. Mortimer Baker of Glendale, who was injured about ten days ago in an automobile accident, is improving and is able to sit up. Mr. and Mrs. Baker of Glendale were driving to Hermosa Beach about ten days ago when their machine was run into and overturned. Mrs. Baker's injuries consisted of several broken ribs. Mr. Baker was cut and bruised but not badly injured. They are spending the summer at their cottage at Hermosa.

M. L. KITTLE IS ARRAIGNED

M. L. Kittle, 765 Wall street, Los Angeles, who, according to the police department, is charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was arraigned before Judge Lowe this morning at 10 o'clock and his preliminary hearing was set for 2 o'clock next Monday afternoon. He was furnished half in the amount of $500, pending his hearing.

THE BULL DAWIS ON GLENDALE

Seeks Laurels He Believes
Hackenschmidt Sneaked
on Him

RIVALS IN MOVIES

Meeting Scheduled by the American Legion for Big Wrestling Match

Whether Herman Hackenschmidt was the warlord in the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" or merely one of the "Four Cutters of the Eucalyptus," he is going to have to look to his laurels, says Bull Montana, who has seen red more than once since Hackenschmidt made his debut on the silver screen and ever since has appeared to be light fingered when it concerned Bull Montana's laurels.

That rather sounds like starting in the middle of things, but in actuality it is going to be worse than that, for Bull Montana says it is going to be the finish of things. And here is the low down on the story.

Saturday, there was a regular parade following a certain shiny, glimmering Cadillac down Brand boulevard. In it sat a man with powerful shoulders squared as antagonistically as is consistently possible, while sitting in a cushioned seat. On his finger glimmered a glimmer that looked as if it had taken six pop bottle to make it, and which would have entitled the owner to arrest had he placed it within the lens of his machine. Thus came Bull Montana down, the main lane of Glendale and drew a stop in front of the Press office.

Showing red in his eye as well as in the necktie, Bull proceeded to throw some of the characteristic declaring that he would prove to the public that he can demolish Hackenschmidt's under-lings both in the movies and in the wrestling. And that if the Glendale people want to see the most sincere wrestling match ever promoted in the Southland, they had better arrange a meeting between him, Bull Montana, and Herman Hackenschmidt, the Frenchman.

Now, this talk greatly interested the folks at the Press, due to the fact that one of the American Legion members happened to be stationed on the scene.

"Sure," says he, "We'll stage a fight for you under the auspices of the American Legion, and now that is what they are going to try to do."

Hackenschmidt, it is true, did disport himself quite nobly in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and consequently endeavored, Bull feared the matter, to get a light of the latter by stretching a light fingered touch over it. Hackenschmidt has continued to step thru the limelight, through the shadows, and through the sunshine to the tune of Hollywood reels, notwithstanding Bull Montana's dynamite about things in movieland in general, but while Hackenschmidt has been taking things quietly, even to portions of Montana's laurels, as some have said, Bull Montana has achieved several reels of good action.

In fact, if his director could have caught that pose he assumed when he addressed the American Legion representative and the Press editor, Bull Montana would be famed forever, and Hackenschmidt's reputation would be a mere thing of moments. As it was, the director was not among those who were present, and consequently that pose was lost to posterity, and unless the American Legion allows the rivalry to come face to face, there's likely to be some melodrama broadcast in Hollywood that might spoil the chances of both in the next drug store beauty contest.

All joking aside, Bull Montana has been a handsome man in his day, and consequently he resents any insinuation that they day might possibly be in the past. He isn't certain from what source these insinuations have originated, but he says he is suspicious of Hackenschmidt of being quite capable when it comes to throwing the asparagus. Therefore, he says, after the fight is over, he is going to leave Hackenschmidt in such shape that he won't be able to throw asparagus in any direction for the next six months and in the meantime, he, Bull, will have had the chance to regain portions of his crown of laurels which might have become entangled in Hackenschmidt's possessions.

CHARGED WITH FIGHTING
Byram Beard of 912 East Acacia and Al Steelman of Burbank, were arrested Sunday in Glendale for creating a disturbance by fighting, according to police records. They were released on $25 bail, pending their appearance at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

IOWA PAYS RESPECT TO SAD WIDOW

Mrs. Harding Clings to Bier of the Late President

IOWA IS NOW PASSED

Lane of Sorrow Grows as the Train Rushes to Capital

[By Associated Press] ABOARD PRESIDENT HARDING'S FUNERAL TRAIN, CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Aug. 6.—The great heart of the middle west pulsed in sympathy and sorrow today as the train bearing home the body of the late President Harding flashed by, countless small stations in Iowa.

All through the night and day as the train maintained terrific speed on its way across the state, people stood along the route. There was not an hour that was not marked thus by groups of men, women and children.

The special train bearing back to Washington all that is mortal of President Harding was racing to make up a little time lost through a near mishap and to reach the home of the late executive by nightfall.

A tire slipped from the forward driving wheel of the big locomotive that was drawing the funeral special as it was rolling slowly thru Chappell, Neb., Sunday. Had the train been traveling at high speed a serious accident might have occurred. As it was the engine of the train following was commandeered and the trip resumed, with but half an hour's loss of time.

But the need of making speed to the capitol is not to be allowed to interfere with the slower cadence of the clicking, humming wheels that mark the approach of a town or city, where daybreak finds cheerful, bareheaded groups gathering to pay their respects to the honored remains and the pale, silent woman in the last car, alone with the guard of honor and the dead that is her's now, more than the nation's.

A chief concern of those who are accompanying the president's remains to Washington for the funeral, Mrs. Harding, was and visibly aged from her suffering and her almost superhuman efforts not to give way, may be given strength to carry on to the finish as she has so bravely begun.

The remarkable woman who sits for long hours beside the bier in the rear compartment, rested a little better Sunday, despite the prolonged strain and her first thoughts when she came from silent contemplation in the funeral coach were for the comfort of others in the party. She sent personal inquiries to several newspaper men about colds they contracted in San Francisco, telling them to take care of themselves and rest while on the train.

Mrs. Harding, who would seem to be in need of the sympathy and strength of the whole nation, as indeed it is being poured out to her in an endless stream of telegrams, actually is trying to brighten the faces of those about her. Her continued courage is the marvel of her friends. But they see behind the drawn, firm, kindly features evidences of the anguish of her spirit.

And the train itself was like a veritable train of the dead. No sign of life or light appeared down its long length as it rolled in diminished speed until the last car came into sight. The windows of one compartment in the rear were lighted from within but still it was as though everything within was graven, so motionless were the guards bowed over their rifles, around the flag-draped casket.

Omaha's funeral tributes were added to the hundreds already received along the route, which now fill one entire car of the special, beside those heaped high about the bier.

When the train reaches Chicago it will be taken over the Belt Line to the Baltimore and Ohio, and will be off on its fast run through to the capitol.

The wide stretches of the west where solitary little communities paid their tribute have been replaced by the more frequent and more thickly populated communities as the train draws near the last lap of its journey. Every where along the line, hour by hour, it is the same story—the American people lining the steel highway

COOLIDGE BEGINS FORMING POLICY CABINET

Holds Conference With Friends to Plan for Future

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent

TEMPORARY WHITE HOUSE, WILLARD HOTEL, WASHINGTON, August 6.—President Calvin Coolidge quietly today began the construction of his "unofficial" cabinet.

After conferences with his most prominent friends within the republican party, Mr. Coolidge—realizing the inevitable necessity for action—began the formation of the new organization which will aid him in formulating new policies.

It was still emphasized, however, that no official step would be taken nor changes of any kind made until after the period of mourning for Mr. Harding. The funeral arrangements are still under the president's mind but the business of government must go on and Mr. Coolidge could not avoid the obligation of organizing his friends and advisers into an unofficial round table to give him their counsel in his great task.

Although the present regular cabinet members selected by Mr. Harding will continue temporarily at least at their posts, the new chief magistrate will, like all presidents, also have his own friends to advise him.

The movement gained headway in various conferences of leading republicans who called at the presidential suite.

The political influence of Attorney General Daugherty has suffered an apparently insurmountable blow in the death of the president.

Daugherty's health is weak and he is in no condition to gather up the fragments of his organization. It is confidently expected here that he will resign his post and retire to private life.

Wm. M. Butler, republican national committeeman from Massachusetts, is being prominently mentioned as the leader of a new Coolidge faction. He is an attorney and close friend of Mr. Coolidge believe he will be appointed Attorney General.

Then there is Frank W. Stearns, the Boston business man, who is already recognized as the power closest to the president. He is prominent and has been Mr. Coolidge's biggest "backer" for the last ten years. It was Stearns who brought Mr. Coolidge out for governor and advised his campaign in his last national elections.

Stearns and his wife are in the suite next to the president on the third floor here.

They met the president in New York and undoubtedly will continue in Washington indefinitely.

Along which the last journey of President Harding is being run, the people of Illinois, as well as those of Iowa, have the opportunity to pay their tribute today.

The train is due at Chicago, where a tremendous crowd is expected to be gathered for a few moments of tribute, at 3:30 p. m. One of the most remarkable gatherings of all those along the first half of the journey was at Omaha, early today. Although the special was reported behind time as a result of the incident at Chappell, many thousands stood in the early hours awaiting its arrival. On the station platform were heaped high, scores of wreaths and floral tributes to President Harding.

In the darkness, along the tracks for a mile in either direction from the station stood the masses, waiting through. Now and then a match flared or the racing of a silver line made suddenly bright its headlights, but for the most part all was quiet as eyes were strained into the darkness for sight of the expected train and ears listened for its whistle.

When the funeral special finally came like a sable ghost out of the west and passed, its drivers grinding more and more slowly between the long ranks, an absolute silence gripped the crowd. Each silent crowd beside the railroad brings a fresh reminder of the nation's loss and must be an additional pang of sorrow for the widow. But when she speaks of this at all, it is with expression of gratitude for the American people's thoughts.

"I can't ever tell these people how they have helped me and upheld me in this hour," Mrs. Harding said, her hand on a stack of telegrams that came pouring in at every station.

It is her inordinate pride in her dead husband and achievements of his life that keeps Mrs. Harding going.

At two or three Iowa points—Boone, Clinton and Cedar Rapids—the funeral special was to pause or stop. The throngs along the route now are so dense that hunters can't catch even a glimpse of the flower-strewn compartment containing the president's casket.

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Aug. 6 (U. P.).—A white seal, which is supposed to be the only known species of its kind in the world, has been seen again at White Point, according to Roman Sepulveda, owner of a resort there.

The strange mammal has frequented the waters there for two years intermittently. Just where it makes its habitat is unknown, but Sepulveda believes it is a species of the Antarctic seal, or possibly a sea leopard. He has been unable to get close enough to de-

NATION'S WIDOW IS COURAGEOUS

Mind Dwells on the Next Ordeal to Come in Washington

WOMEN ABOUT HER

Determined to Preserve Her Self Control to the End

[By Associated Press] ON BOARD HARDING'S FUNERAL TRAIN AT CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Aug. 6.—(By the Associated Press) Mrs. Harding again today rested in her room in the private car "Superb," which carries the body of her distinguished husband. She rested from the strain of last week and to store up strength to carry her through the trying hours of the state funeral services in Washington Wednesday, and the even more trying hours in Marion preceding the commitment.

The widow of the late president had a fairly comfortable night's sleep. She talked today as yesterday with some of the ladies of the party, Mrs. Malcolm Jennings of Columbus, O., a particularly close friend; Mrs. Christian, wife of the secretary to the late president; Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the secretary of commerce; Mrs. Hubert Work, wife of the secretary of the interior, and Mrs. E. E. Remsburg of Santa Ana, Calif., a sister of Mr. Harding.

Mrs. Harding's conversation is said to be largely concerning her husband, the things he had been doing and the plans he had made for the future. Courageously calm, she said she had outlined in her mind everything that is to take place from the time the funeral train reaches Washington tomorrow afternoon until the last sad services Friday under the elm trees in the cemetery at Marion. She is determined to go through it all in the calm manner she has been able to maintain without any exception since last Thursday evening. Whether she can do it or not remains to be seen, but those who know her best say that she can.

Members of the party on the train were continuously touched and their eyes often grew misty broad state of Iowa. The "big" "bobby" for the last ten years. It was Stearns who brought Mr. Coolidge out for governor and advised his campaign in his last national elections.

Stearns and his wife are in the suite next to the president on the third floor here. They met the president in New York and undoubtedly will continue in Washington indefinitely.

WOODROW WILSON TO PARTICIPATE IN FUNERAL

Lameness Prevents Attendance at Rotunda Service to Harding

[By Associated Press] WASHINGTON, August 6.—Woodrow Wilson in a letter to President Coolidge made public today, said he would "esteem it an honor to take part in the funeral procession," for President Harding on Wednesday, but that his lameness would make it impossible for him to attend the services in the rotunda at the capitol.

The letter, under date of yesterday, was in response to one from President Coolidge inviting him to participate in the ceremonies for the dead president. It was as follows:

"My dear Mr. President:

"Thank you sincerely for the gracious courtesy of your note just received. I sincerely grieve as you do over the death of President Harding, who had undoubtedly won the esteem of the whole nation by his honorable and conscientious conduct in office.

"I shall esteem it an honor to take part in the funeral procession, and shall be obliged if you will assign a position in the procession for my car, which will be occupied by Mrs. Wilson and myself and I hope by my friend, Admiral Grayson. It will be with feelings of the utmost solemnity and reverence that I will attend, I regret to say my lameness makes it impracticable for me to attend the exercises at the capitol.

"Allow me to express the hope that your administration of the great office to which you have been so unexpectedly called will abound in satisfaction of many kinds.

"With cordial good wishes,

"Sincerely yours,

"WOODROW WILSON."

W. C. T. U. CALLS MEMBERS TO THE PALISADES

Wednesday to Be Only Free Day in the Chautauqua

All members and friends of the Glendale W. C. T. U. are urged by Mrs. Ruby Smart, president, to attend the W. C. T. U. day at the Pacific Palisades, Santa Monica, on Wednesday, August 8, beginning at 9:30 o'clock. This will be the only free day during the entire session at the Palisades and there will be no entrance fee. The W. C. T. U. of Southern California has been included on the program of the chautauqua for the Pacific Palisades on that day.

A fine program has been prepared. At 9:30 a. m. there will be talks given by able devotional speakers. At 11 a. m. there will be an hour of reading and an address on "Social Morality." In the afternoon from 3 p. m. until 4 there will be a display parade of the work of the organization. The notable Sammie's Sisters will be present all day and give their unique and charming program. In the evening Princess Rhame Halder of Jerusalem and Miss H. Lucille Burgess will present their beautiful drama of the story of Ruth and Naomi.

The public is cordially invited to attend. Those going from Glendale may reach the grounds by taking the Pasadena-Ocean Park bus or by going to Los Angeles and taking the Santa Monica car at Fourth and Hill streets and getting off at Utah street, Santa Monica, taking a bus from there to the Palisades grounds.

EARLY WAR DAYS SEEN AT T. D. & L.

In filming "Enemies of Women," considered by many to be Vicente Blasco Ibanez's greatest romance, Cosmopolitan Productions probably occasioned more excitement in certain sections of Paris than the capital of France has witnessed since that memorable day in August, 1914, when the declaration of war was made. Although not the most predominant factor the war itself is woven through the story and many of the scenes in the picture reveal the patriotic fervor of the gay boulevardiers as they swarmed to the protection of La Belle France.

Paris, Nice and Monte Carlo, all being locations for "Enemies of Women," the Cosmopolitan Corporation, desirous of overlooking no opportunity to make the most of the play the last touch of atmosphere, sent the entire company making the picture for Europe for six weeks. Of these six weeks, two weeks were spent in Paris, during which time many Parisians, relieved the days when the war cloud settled over Europe. This photoplay, distributed by Goldwyn-Cosmopolitan, will be at the T. D. & L. Theater for three days.

BROADWAY M. E. MARKS HARDING DEATH, SUNDAY

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. L. J. Millikan, preaching service was conducted by Rev. Ed. Hoskyn, yesterday at the Broadway M. E. Church South. Prof. Whitaker sang by request "The Old Rugged Cross." Mrs. Gail R. Truman presided at the piano. Before the sermon the speaker paid a beautiful and loving tribute to the life of our late President. In deference to his memory the choir and congregation sang "Lead Kindly Light," this being Mr. Harding's favorite song.

Mr. Hoskyn selected for his sermon topic Joshua 1: 3, "Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you." In a very concise manner the speaker explained the deliverance for the children of Israel being required to roam the desert for forty years, and consequently their delay in entering the promised land. Their crossing the river Jordan and taking possession of the promised land was conditioned upon certain requirements, and not until they had met these requirements did God permit them to leave the barren waste. Deliverance comes as soon as we are ready, but never before. Lack of obedience, knowledge, and submission to God's will were the chief causes that prevented their deliverance. On the day those rebellious people repented that day God led them into the coveted promised land. Once established in Canaan all went well with them so long as they obeyed God, and the fact that they forsook Him and worshipped Baal, was nothing short of a tragedy. For their sins they paid the penalty; this we all do. Applying his subject to modern times the speaker deplored the fact that so many Christians are still roaming the deserts of doubt, fear and disobedience, instead of wholly meeting the conditions of stepping out upon Canaan's Happy Land, and enjoying the rich experiences that God has in store for every faithful follower. We must fight, like men, every hindrance that is displeasing to God. One of the first requirements is a clean life, and that Christian who, unfortunately, has acquired the habit of using tobacco, will have to fight, and fight hard, to purge himself of the filthy habit.

In a certain spiritual sense the Lord has said to you and to me that every spot upon which the foot of a human soul can tread has He given unto us for a possession. Let us meet the conditions and enjoy the rich reward.

Special Time-Saving Notice

To you with little or no time to spare, please read paragraphs 1, 4 and 7; they have an important message for you. We wish, however, to go to these points in a little more detail.

To You Thinking People

Have an Interest in the Growth of Glendale

A new outpost will be established in the Progress March of Both the Commercial and Civic life of Glendale.

No. 1 THE doors of the new Federal Commercial and Savings Bank of Glendale, located at the southeast corner of Wilson and Brand Boulevard, will be open on August 11th, 9 A. M., and will remain open that day until 9 P. M. The opening of this bank will be a striking point from which many lesser occurrences will be dated.

The opening of this strictly home-owned and home-operated State Bank is an extraordinary occasion. There is nothing about it that is either ordinary or usual. It is an event of tremendous importance to the public, for it means that your State government has sent representatives here to examine this district and determine whether or not it needs the impulse which another strong and well managed bank could give it, and the issuing of our charter is evidence that such a need is here.

With this in mind, it is not unreasonable to believe that the opening of the Federal Commercial and Savings Bank is so influential a factor in the development of this locality that it has the importance of being an epoch-making event in this city's history.

No. 4 We fully appreciate the historical significance of the opening day of any bank and knowing that you have the progressive mind that grasps the uniqueness and advantages of such an occasion, and believing that you realize the importance which the opening of a strictly home-owned and home-operated bank with completely equipped commercial, savings, safety deposit and escrow departments, has, we have provided a handsome souvenir in the nature of a silver Artpoint pencil which will be presented to every First Day Depositor, either checking or saving, no matter what size the deposit may be.

This souvenir is a costly and substantial affair, designed especially for this occasion and possessed of practical usefulness. The First Depositor at the Bank doors next Saturday morning will receive a beautiful gold pencil—one for the first lady and one for the first gentleman—and all other depositors will be presented with silver ones of the same design and quality.

This is an unusual souvenir and one which both now and in after years anyone will be proud to own. Being upbranded with advertising, it can be a useful token to you of the time when you took part in the furtherance of the commercial and financial facilities of this fast growing city and section by helping to establish a strictly home-owned and home-operated State Bank within its borders.

BRITISH TENNIS IS LA CRESCENTA TO HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES

DUBBED 'GRAND-FATHERLY'

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—While 1923 may have been the year of big busts for champions, several headliners of sports have successfully survived the test of the year and will be back next year defending their titles.

Foremost, perhaps, of the super-champions who have passed the 1923 test safely, is Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the queen of the world's tennis court.

The great French girl, who says she has completely recovered her health, ran away so far with the championship at Wimbledon that her game encouraged the tennis expert of "Sporting Life" (London) to write:

"If anything, Suzanne is better than she ever was. Can she improve? If she does, what hope is there of recovering the championship for perhaps another fifteen years?"

Enthusiasm over the form shown by the French girl, the ease with which she walked through the tournament and the possible wealth of material in England may have aroused enthusiasm to the point of exaggeration in estimating the length of Suzanne's reign as queen of the courts.

Age and increasing years do not exact the penalty among tennis players with the same severity suffered by other athletes. Brookes remained a star until he was an "old man" and several of the star women players of the United States "carry on" long past the age when the average athlete could have been counted on as having passed the peak.

Disregarding the promise shown by Miss Helen Wills, the California girl star, it is only logical to figure that Mlle. Lenglen is not a champion for an indefinite period. The French girl, regardless of what was said about her heart when she retired at Forest Hills two years ago, is none too strong and she has had a very strenuous career on the courts. She may retain her strokes and her technique, but her physical resources cannot go on forever.

Little Helen Wills is building a strong game of distinctive masculine style, due to the fact that she learned the game and developed it against male opposition. She is developing great strength and unless the experts are all wrong, the time in years can be counted on the hand when she becomes the champion.

England, beyond doubt, feels chagrined at the loss of national tennis prestige in a sport that is almost as distinctively British as golf.

Victories of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen and that great little American sportsman, Bill Johnston, in the singles at Wimbledon, took away again both the British titles and they caused it to be asked with some concern—"What is the matter with British tennis?"

The same writer in "Sporting Life" who paid tribute to the game of Mlle. Lenglen, advances the following theories in answer:

"It is the cult of the hard court which has been responsible for the loss of our supremacy at a game which was invented by an Englishman. The hard court has reared a series of foreign and colonial champions, who have gained their successes mainly by taking of the ball on the top of its bound."

"Nearly all of the best men are tainted with the theory of baseline perpetual motion, and what use is it when pitted against the modern school? Did it affect Tilden, worry Patterson, or threaten Johnston?"

"All these three world's champions thrived on the hard court, and regarded it with the scorn and the contempt that it so richly deserves. Their whole game is full of virility and the devil. We have heard enough about grandmotherly lawn tennis?"

"The means by which our present champions held their sway are now, like the old fashioned gun, out of date and fit only for the scrap heap. They had to angle for their openings in a weary and exhausting way. The new champions angle for no openings. They simply hit the balls, and mighty hard, too."

"Champions are now bred on hard and sun baked grass courts, and not on uneven surfaces, such as are experienced in this country."

Vinnie Richards, who won his way into the British hearts, lost during the Wimbledon tournament because of his inability to hit hard off the ground, in the opinion of the same writer, "His great volleying certainly merited a partial success," he commented.

ALAMEDA COUNTY LEADS IN NEW CHILD THOUGHT

In keeping with the western habit of taking long strides where new movements are concerned, Alameda county, California, has just staked out a position well in the forefront of progressive innovation in child health matters, by appointing a "co-ordinator of nursing activities" of the Alameda County Public Health Center, who is at the same time supervisor of school nurses in the Oakland city schools. The first incumbent of this unique public health office is Miss Florence B. Bussell of Oakland, who received her nursing training in England, at St. Bartholomew's hospital in Rochester, and at Charing Cross hospital, London.

Miss Bussell is at present in the East making a personal inspection of methods and projects in health work for children. She is especially interested in plans for teaching health to school children, which she discussed in New York with Miss Marie L. Rose, acting director of the Health Education division of the American Child Health association, a national organization working for the improvement of methods and standards of child health care throughout the nation. School children in Oakland have been learning fundamental health habits and been stimulated to strive for health as a personal goal largely through the "rules of the health game," promoted by the American Child Health association, by which such things as drinking milk, eating fresh vegetables, and gaining in weight and height, have been made a competitive sport among hundreds of thousands of school children all over the country. The health primers and health playlets devised by the health education division of the association, as well as its posters and charts and other devices for relating health teaching to schoolroom work, are being extensively used in the schools of Oakland. The association has its headquarters in Washington, and administrative offices at 370 Seventh avenue, New York city.

WANT A BUFFALO: PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 6 (U. P.)—Do you want a buffalo for a household pet or a playmate for the children?

According to Smith Riley, head of the bird and animal reservation department of the United States, who has been here for several days, the government would like to dispose of about 400 buffalo in the Bison range of Montana. The animals are increasing so rapidly the food capacity of the range is being depleted, Riley said.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Doggett of 326 West Garfield spent last Sunday at the beach. They had a very enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Morgan of 1125 South Central avenue are leaving today for a two weeks' stay at Balboa Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Wernette of 446 Riverdale drive have been entertaining Mr. Kemble Mills. He is returning to his home in Berkeley tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lockwood and children, Vera May and Homer, Jr., of 725 North Louise street, spent the week-end at Lake Arrowhead. They made the trip by motor.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lockwood and children, Vera May and Homer, Jr., are leaving this Friday for a ten days' stay at La Jolla. They will be accompanied by Mr. Lockwood's mother, Mrs. Swits.

Mrs. E. W. Kinney of 123 West Elk street has just returned after a three weeks' stay at Ocean Park. She was accompanied by her grandchildren, Alice and James Leighton. While there, they resided at the Hotel Cadillac.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Brown and son, Longston, of 406 North Maryland are leaving today for a ten days' stay at Mount Herman, where a Christian Endeavor conference is being held. They will be accompanied by Miss Mildred Thompson.

Mrs. H. C. Wilcox of 620 North Maryland avenue will entertain the members of the literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club at an all-day meeting to be held on Thursday at her summer home at Manhattan Beach.

A week-end party was enjoyed by a group of friends at Huntington Beach. The trip was made by auto. Those in the party were Mrs. W. F. Knox and children, Dylon and Christine; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Knox, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Starkey and daughter, May.

Mrs. Paul Butterfield of 431 Arden avenue is spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kimball of San Joaquin. Mr. and Mrs. Kimball were formerly old residents of Glendale. Mrs. Butterfield was accompanied by her son, Howard Wallace.

During their week-end stay in San Diego, Norman Ashcroft and Dr. Libbie Ashcroft of this city and their guest, Miss Frances Dawson of Los Angeles, visited Tia Juana and there saw a reminder of the old-time days before the adoption of the 18th amendment, an old-time saloon, a citizen very drunk, a policeman not quite so drunk, both covered with their own and each other's blood, a quantity of which was also being mopped up from the saloon floor. They motored to San Diego Saturday and returned Sunday.

'THE WORM' IN A PREVIEW AT THE GLENDALE

Preview tonight, "The Worm" with Johnny Walker, a comedy reel.

The latest Norma Talmadge Revival to be issued by the Selznick company, "The Heart of Wotona," opened Sunday for a three days' engagement at the Glendale Theater on Sunday.

The picture is adapted from the famous play of the same name which was written by George Scarborough, and which David Belasco produced with tremendous success several years ago, starring Lenore Ulric. The direction was by Sidney A. Franklin.

The production was filmed on an Indian reservation in California, consisting of 150 Indians and 20 log cabins. The reservation which is called Idyllwild is situated at an altitude of 4,000 feet. During the filming of this picture Miss Talmadge lived with her mother and her sister, Constance, in a beautiful bungalow directly outside the reservation.

Norma was idolized by the natives of Idyllwild. They never tired of watching her work or watching her play. Before she left the reservation the Indians insisted upon giving a party in her honor. A huge celebration consisting of tribal dances and a barbecue was tendered her. She was made a princess of the tribe, the highest honor an Indian tribe can bestow on a woman.

'ALICE ADAMS' IS DELIGHTFUL IN ITS APPEAL

The Encore Picture, "Alice Adams," starring Florence Vidor, is a "best seller" that has been carefully adapted to the screen and will not disappoint admirers of Booth Tarkington's novel. It is an Encore Picture and was shown for the first time at the Gateway Theater.

"Alice Adams," as written by Mr. Tarkington and as adapted for the screen and directed by Rowland V. Lee and interpreted by a splendid cast, is a homely story of every-day folks, but it grips because it is presented artistically and intelligently. It will make a deep impression upon those who want the best in screen entertainment.

Miss Vidor has a perfect understanding of the role of Alice and gives a splendid performance and always expects of her Claude Gillingwater, Harold Goodwin, Margaret McWade and Vernon Steel are wonderful portraits of the original characters.

NAZARENE CHURCH HOLDS REGULAR SERVICES AGAIN

The first regular service since the close of the camp meeting was held Sunday at the Nazarene church. The Sunday school and afternoon preaching service drew a large attendance. Rev. Scheidegger, pastor of the church, preached at the afternoon service. At night the service opened with a song and testimony service, after which two young men from the Pasadena University gave the story of their conversion.

MISS BALDWIN GIVES THEATRE PARTY IN L. A.

Miss Jeannette Baldwin of 624 North Orange street entertained some friends at a theatre party last Saturday evening. They went to the Philharmonic where Jane Cowi is playing in Romeo and Juliet. Mr. P. A. Johnston, noted educator of Cincinnati, was among her guests. He is visiting in Glendale at present and will remain the rest of the summer.

Truths in Epigram

The discovery of a new dish does more for the happiness of man than the discovery of a star.—Brilliant-Savarin.

Of all that prosper count ye no man happy until he die.—Euripides.

It is better to suffer wrong than to do it, and happier to be sometimes cheated than not to trust.—Johnson.

TWO MEDALS THIS TIME

Friends of a film actor are trying to get a Carnegie medal for him. It seems that last January he rescued his director from drowning in the Pacific. He did this at the risk of his own life. The display of courage was not surprising, however. There are many stunt actors who place their bones in danger as part of the day's work. Whether or not the heroism of this hero be recognized by bestowal of a medal, such distinction has been earned. There are other factors of the situation that make the feat of bravery shine out ennobled by even finer qualities. Possibly the occasion would warrant the handing over of two medals.

Although the episode was in January, the first recital of it was in July. To have let slip such an opportunity for publicity; to have held concealed within a coterie of palpitating bosoms, a secret good for columns, with cuts and biographical sketches of rescuer and rescued, together with a short setting-forth of the play they were engaged in filming, was more than valor. It was vehement, determined, almost fierce defiance of precedents. Why, many a press agent would have told the story had it lacked every element of truth, and the observers of the affair that never occurred, would have corroborated details. Here was the truth all demonstrated, no fibbing necessary. Here in evidence was a director and an actor both pickled in brine, their veracity glowing effulgent. And modesty kept them silent. Well, did you ever!

Another plea may be advanced on behalf of the second medal. Many an actor has felt in his soul that the drowning of a director would afford a pleasing spectacle. Indeed, the temptation to toss the director overboard is recognized as a standard emotion. The unselfishness that checked it in this instance is worth some recognition.

TOLSTOY'S MISTAKES

According to Ilya Tolstoy, by courtesy a count, veneration for the dollar is holding back American civilization. Standing in this precise form, the statement is meaningless. When he added that the Hindu in his homespun shirt was more civilized than most Americans, he imparted a meaning. It is better to do without comforts and conveniences than to provide these things. Tolstoy is quite welcome to his views, but he cannot make them generally acceptable.

Leo Tolstoy was a large figure in the world of intellect. His mark on literature is bound to be an abiding one. As to his philosophy, much of it was the expression of crabbed age. He had been a soldier, had in time of peace led a life of luxury. He had had his fling. Conscious of the burden of years, weary of the follies that no longer tempted him, he railed against them. Out of his regrets and his later prejudices he built a philosophy that suited his mood and circumstance. He led an ascetic life, but it pleased him. He had led the other kind and outgrown the desire for it. The Tolstoy of the present is in part the echo of his distinguished sire.

The quality of veneration for the dollar is largely imaginative. It is no more apparent in America than elsewhere. The possession of a dollar accords to the possessor certain privileges. He may use the coin to procure that which he really wants. Here and there is the genius to whom money means nothing. Ordinarily the absence of effort to accumulate money, not in vast totals, but enough to meet ordinary needs, is a sign of laziness, the presence of the mental hookworm. The result is seen markedly in communities of "poor whites."

In ten years the Rockefeller Foundation has received a total of $182,704,624 from the founder. Its total disbursements have been $76,800,000. It stands pledged to $15,600,000 more. It constantly seeks new avenues of expenditure. All this money has been devoted to the promotion of science, especially to medical advancement; or to education and to hospital work in many lands. It has gone to the effort to make living conditions better, life longer and happier.

The Hindu, serene and slothful in his homespun shirt feels no impulse to do such things. What is civilization anyhow, that it is sustained by the Hindu, and hampered by the man of means and the scientist? Perhaps Tolstoy errs. Nor has it been found that his personal attitude towards the dollar approaching the boxoffice is that of hostility.

MR. LEWIS FORESEES

J. Hamilton Lewis, once senator from Illinois, predicts that the government will seize the oil fields of California for use of the navy. It might be well for it to seize the citrus orchards so as to insure the worthy sailors an abundance of orange juice, said to be excellent as a preventive of scurvy.

Southern California has become the greatest oil producer of the world. Ships go laden with oil from the harbor at San Pedro to the ports of two continents. The navy is capable of consuming large quantities of liquid fuel. It could make only a feeble start towards consuming the amount available here. It would have so much oil to burn that it couldn't burn it.

It is to be hoped that when the oil fields shall have passed into the hands of the gentleman ably conducting the navy, that they will not be greedy. At least they should permit the public to use the surplus. Oil is devoted to many purposes, most of them useful, industry, finding itself deprived of the usual supply, would be greatly hampered.

In time of war (which is a most indefinite date), the government of course could seize anything it needed, but in time of peace it might be a good plan to permit private enterprise to go on about its accustomed business.

Statements are made that the cut in the price of gasoline works a hardship on the refiner. So far there have been scant signs of sympathy, for the refiner had not been supposed to operate on so narrow a margin.

There can be no doubt that in getting the services of August Vollmer as chief of police, Los Angeles has an officer of ability and distinction. That he will be given adequate support there is considerable reason to doubt. Before there could be such support, the politicians would have to be eliminated from the department, and outside political influence overcome.

When a girl informs her folks that she is going to marry a certain young man that settles it.

PESSIMISTS AHoy!

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Not that I want to talk to you, God bless you. I want to dehorn your pessimism, because a pessimist is a pest and this is a sanitary and prophylactic age which seeks to destroy all plagues in every form.

Of course this is addressed to the ambulatory pessimists who go about in full health and fair wealth destroying the faith of well-meaning citizens in God and the constitution of the United States not to mention the financial system and the virtue of the flapper. Incarcerated pessimists don't count; they are so busy devising means to escape incarceration that they have no time to pessimize. I am talking about the members of the breed who are fully equipped with mind and limb, sight, smell and taste, and who eat three meals daily and sleep under a roof.

If their attention has been enlisted let them think on the plight of the inmates of the insane asylum at Patton the night of the earthquake. The papers record that among these unfortunates there was a veritable panic when the earth began to heave. People read the dispatch carelessly, but in the facts that gave it birth is a tragedy on which those to whom I have referred may wish to profit do a bit of thinking.

Among free men and women are many who have no affinity for terrors, tornadoes or fires. Such things are sufficiently terrifying without the panic of the trapped animal being added to them. Do not delude yourself with the idea that you are escaping.

But the insane, the convict, the cripple, the victim of paralysis—such unfortunates have to stand still in their terror when natural forces are at play. They wonder mad with fear whether or not they will be rescued if the buildings collapse, the roof falls or fire follows quake.

Some years ago in a southern city the penitentiary caught fire following a great storm during which parts of the institution were wrecked. The convicts were trapped and some of them could not be rescued; they burned in their cells to the horror of the helpless onlookers and they died during the society that had imprisoned them.

Of course the pessimists will say that they are neither criminals nor insane. True, but is not there in that very act a cause for gratitude to destiny and for rejoicing?

An odd thing to rejoice over? No, it's merely one of the simple things on which we seldom if ever, just as we seldom if ever think of a whole body as a blessing, or of health in that body, or the sunshine or the green grass, as we do not think ourselves fortunate to have been born in a country free of plague or overlook the myriad notes of music that nature supplies through the throats of insects and birds or the radiance of color that flames in the flowers by the roadside.

How could there be ambulatory pessimists if they remembered these things? But the ambulatory pessimist remembers nothing save that his neighbor has a six cylinder limousine while he bats about in a Ford or that the laboring people fail to attend church or his wife pays too much for her millinery. That is why he is a pessimist—he remembers the wrong things.

An optimist is one who remembers the right things among which are that he is free to move about when earthquakes arrive; that he does not have to be led like the blind and that men do not shrink or shudder when they look upon his body.

This is the end of the preaching and I am going to flock with the optimists. I certainly do esteem it a privilege to walk about when the earth begins to rock.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

FAULTS IN YOUR ENGLISH
(Find the error in this article)

Have you ever made a survey of your speech to determine the number of faulty expressions you are in the habit of using? Note some that are heard every day:

Aggravate is a word often misused. "He was aggravated by the remark," is incorrect. Aggravate means to make worse. The following is correct: His anger was further aggravated by the next remark the man made.

And is frequently used instead of to; as, He is going to his room and get his book. One should say, "He is going to his room to get his book."

Another example: Will you try and get it? This sentence should read as follows: Will you try to get it?

Do not use any place for anywhere; nor every place for everywhere; nor no place for nowhere; nor some place for somewhere.

Avoid the use of awful; as, I had an awful good time. Awful means inspiring with awe; as, the awful presence of God. Try and choose a word that accurately expresses your meaning; as, I had a very good time; a serious blunder (not, an awful blunder).

Vocabulary
Suavity means agreeable smoothness of manner; blandness; urbanity; as, the suavity of extreme politeness. The word is pronounced swa-vi-ti (a as in at).

Queries
"An Interested Reader": "Should contentment be capitalized in the following sentence: 'I am sailing for the Continent'; when Continent means Europe?"

Answer: Yes.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

We have had some rugged patriots in this land. They have left us sacred memories. And immortal words.

JAMES W. FOLEY

For our inspiration and blessing. And illustrious deeds for our example.

General Grant, for instance. A saying of his came to mind just now. When it was needed.

For in the lives of all persons there are times when inspiration is needed. And we are fortunate if the right thing happens to come to mind.

As it will if we have at odd times stored the mind with things sometime to be needed.

As the provident housewife stores her sewing basket. Or closet. Or larder.

That is what the mind is for, in a measure. To me a storehouse of truth. That we may at times go into it and bring out something needful.

As the housewife does into her closet.

Grant was rugged. Determined. Grim and resolute. Yet without kind and tender. Meaning no ill to any soul alive. And yet sparing nothing to bring about victory for the cause he believed in.

And at one time in his career as a soldier things moved slowly.

Songs of the Poets

Song—By Thomas Hood

A lake and a fairy boat
To sail in the moonlight clear—
And merrily we would float
From the dragons that watch us here!

Thy gown should be snow-white silk,
And strings of orient pearls;
Like gossamers dipped in milk,
Should twine in thy raven curls.

Red rubies should deck thy hands,
And diamonds be thy dower—
But fairies have broke their wands,
And wishing has lost its power!

PUBLICITY AND ORGANIZATION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

PUBLICITY is about the only known corrective for the evils of organization.

Organization has its good uses as everybody knows. Without organization we could not have the grandest government on earth which is of course our own, or the only true Church, or the Grand Old Party, or the world's greatest newspaper, or any other of these superexcellent things to which we happen to belong.

Organization is the tool by which we get things done. But all tools are likely to cut our fingers and play hob generally, unless they are used right.

And organizations, besides being instruments of general welfare, develop quite often into obstructions, nuisances and tyrannies.

The Ku Klux Klan is an organization which sprang up at the close of the Civil War for the purpose of terrorizing the negroes. It has recently had quite a revival and has been directing its attention to the Jews, the Roman Catholics and other groups that certain people do not like and whom they are minded to denigrate.

Some time ago the state of New York enacted a law requiring all secret orders to file with the Secretary of the State the names of members. A meeting of protest was held in the town of Eastport at which a throng of fully robed Klansmen gathered under the glare of a red electrically lighted cross and surrounded the King Kleagle, or high muckamuck of their order, and listened to him attack the law as unconstitutional.

"We will fight," said the King Kleagle, "to the last breathwork to prevent public disclosures of the identity of our membership."

This disposition to fight on "till death and even after is quite understandable when we take into consideration the fact that publicity strikes at the very roots of organization.

For one of the chief spiritual advantages of organization is that by means of it a group of individuals can do dirty work very effectively which no one of them would care to do himself.

In these days of invention and progress no invention has been quite so useful as the organization for the perpetration of long distance devilry by perfectly respectable citizens. A man can pass the hat at church, live in the odor of sanctity as the President of the Associated Charities and be a model husband and father as John Jones, while as a member of the board of directors of the Jones Promoting Trust, Incorporated, he can rob right and left and do an occasional bit of thuggery and never get the blood on his cuffs.

As members of an organized holy men once roasted heretics and hung silly old women as witches and swiped the property of some rival merchant into the coffers of the church, incidentally putting a competitor out of business, when as individuals these same holy brethren were good to their folks, charitable to the poor and never used tobacco in any form.

The gentlemen who during the turbulent period between the years 1914 and 1918 clustered up Belgium and northern France and disported themselves by cutting down fruit trees and blowing up residences and destroying mines and factories, proclaimed themselves as the apostles of culture. Probably very few of them were vicious individuals, but their organization formed for promoting the interests of the Fatherland was about the most devilish piece of machinery that ever broke loose on earth.

Bad as their organization was nobody could hang it. And we seem to have considerable scruples against hanging the men who belong to it.

It is a sort of cardinal principle of mine that all men at heart are good. And by the same token I am of the opinion that every organization needs watching.

Just as no man should write an anonymous letter which he is afraid to sign so no man has any business to belong to an organization and be unwilling to assume his share of the responsibility for its deeds.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

Ilya Tolstoy deprecates American love of the dollar, but he himself finds the rattle of the coin in the boxoffice quite pleasing.

In rejoicing over the cut in gasoline consumers have overlooked the poor refiner.

Los Angeles has a new chief of police, but then, it always has.

La Follette is on his way abroad. Gloom is cast on the situation by the fact that he has a return ticket.

There has been high water in Colorado, mobbing spooners $25 each, believing that a washing out a number of railroad bridges, moving flivver is a poor spoonholder.

and not a single paper in California has announced the fact in an extra with scareheads.

Without advocating movie censorship it may be said that any film from Russia will be viewed with suspicion.

Too bad that the march of progress makes so many ugly scars on the mountains of southern California.

General Wood seems to have exasperated with military precision upon the fuse of the Philippine bomb prepared for his undoing.

The public is waiting for one school of journalism to explain that the eclipse of the sun was arranged by the editor.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The Ohio law in regulation of pedestrians ought to be welcomed by them. It is for the saving of their bones. If enforced it must cut down the mortality total in a comforting way.

According to this law the pedestrian must move in the direction that vehicular traffic moves, never across it. He must obey the signals of the policeman as rigidly as the driver is required to do. He'll be mad about it of course. As a reasonable human being he may have it over the average driver a little, but not much.

That many drivers are greedy and careless, and that they resent the presence of the person on foot, is a fact. Other drivers are adjudged to possess similar qualities when they are not guilty. Not in every instance is the driver a free agent. He has to consider conditions that may not be apparent to the pedestrian. Other machines may be coming at him in such fashion that he is forced to move even though the move make him shave so close to the walker that the latter gets red with rage.

The rights of a dog on the highway afford a debatable topic. A city bred dog ought to have some crowd sense. If the creature, accustomed daily to see hundreds of machines pass, rushes at each, there is bound to come a time when the drivers get tired of saving the brute. Nobody wants to kill or maim a dog. Drivers every day risk their own necks and their machines to avoid the possibility. As a matter of fact no dog is worth a human neck, and mighty few are worth a good machine.

Times have changed. In the Los Angeles Express fifty years ago appeared this item:

"The departure of loaded teams from the depot since our last have been as follows: Two to Cerro Gordo, two to San Bernardino, three to Lone Pine, one to Coyote Hole."

Times have changed so much that the effort to keep up this record has been abandoned.

A Pasadenan returned from Brazil after a sojourn of several years, speaks of his gratification at observing the increase of commercial relations between the United States and South America.

This really is of more importance than had given his opinion as to the South American attitude towards the Monroe doctrine.

A woman may not be accused of discourtesy when she declines a ride proffered by a stranger driving an automobile. He may be a perfect gentleman at that, but she does not know it. Many a girl who has accepted a ride with a stranger has become involved in tragedy. There are so many instances of the sort, that caution is natural and proper.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

These are warm days and the baby cries often. At least he seems to cry more than usual and his fretting disturbs us more. In self defense one picks him up and holds him or walks up and down the floor with him, cuddling and dandling him and coaxing him to be quiet. And one ought not to do that.

On the contrary, one should let him lie on his back and get what comfort he can out of his fussing when he refuses to rest content. For it will not do to feed him every time he cries. It will not do to fly to his side and hang over him in anxiety every time he calls. The more such attention he receives the less likely he is to compose himself and make the best of the situation. Even babies have to learn that.

The baby will learn it, though, if he is picked up and bounced as though he was a milk shake. Of course, his nervous attendant is trying with might and main to bring peace to this child of unrest, but, of course again, is failing in the endeavor because peace to the disturbed child is within his we soul and cannot come as a gift.

Let him be made comfortable by bathing and powdering and feeding. Clothe him in nakedness as nearly as health and comfort will permit. See that his bed is cool. Feathers under a baby on a hot day are a barrier. Smooth out every wrinkle in the sheet, stretch the netting snugly over him, try to pitch his tent where the cool breeze will flutter his canopy, and let him alone.

It is hard to listen to him cry, but picking him up won't stop him. Holding him makes him warmer and irritates him afresh. Even if he is ill, holding him won't help him. His bed feels auster to his body and much more comfortable.

This does not mean that a baby is to be fed, bathed, laid on his bed and permitted to vegetate there while the family goes on unheeding him. Children need to be cuddled and loved and played with. Above all they need to be talked to so that they may learn to talk in their turn. It does mean though that a disturbed child, uneasy and fretting because of the heat, should not be further tormented by his well-wishers but left to the grim comfort of expressing his annoyance within reasonable bounds.

Sometimes all the youngster needs is a spoonful of cool water. Grow up folk forget that babies, like a drink of cool water in warm weather. They are so used to feeding them milk and barley water and infants' food that they overlook the drink of pure water.

Just turning the mattress helps, too, and if he has a pillow turn that every so often and have an extra one to change off with. Pillows get hot and soggy.

Wipe off the little head and lay it on a cool pillow and see the light of relief steal over the wee thing's face. But don't hold him if you can help it.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Ever since I've known Tommy Blake I have considered him a sort of matrimonial worm. He has been the perfect specimen of the down-trodden husband. Mrs. Blake is a dominant, irascible, bad-mannered woman and poor Tommy, worse luck, is sweet and chivalrous and unselfish.

"Don't jiggle your feet, Tommy!" Mrs. Blake cries from time to time, when Tommy has so far forgotten her as to be happy in a book.

"Don't wiggle! Don't snort!"

So Tommy gives the best imitation of a stuffed coat in a haberdasher's window that he can. Once he wanted to keep chickens and the thought was stamped out. He has never been permitted to have a dog. He bought a car and Mrs. Blake stormed because his initials and not hers were painted on the door. He wanted a garden. Mrs. Blake agreed to that, but Tommy reneged. He discovered in time that the garden was not to be for his entertainment and relaxation. Mrs. Blake planned to sit on the porch and boss him at the wedding.

Then—a year ago—Tommy struck. He just went away. He left Mrs. Blake a note to the general effect that he loved her, but they would both be happier if they lived apart. He would send her a full half of his income, but she had so bull-dogged and bedeviled him—he shrouded his thought in much prettier language—that he believed separation would suit both. I saw him several times during his year of freedom. He looked twenty years younger. He had a dog and a garden and his favorite books and he jigged his feet as he read. Poor Mrs. Blake was the sufferer. All that commanding presence had departed from her. She was aged and wrinkled and sad. Tommy met her once—by accident—and his heart reproached him. So he came back.

"Don't jiggle your feet, Tommy!" said Mrs. Blake last night during my call. "Don't twist! Don't snort when you laugh! My goodness sake! Can't you show me a little consideration, when you know how these things annoy me?"

Mrs. Blake is young and fresh and rosy again. It's Tommy Blake who has grown old.

ROUGHING IT IN NORTH TOLD BY ROBERT ROWLEY

He and His Chums Are Caught in Floods in Wyoming

Robert Rowley, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Rowley, of 334 Vine street, who left Glendale by automobile two weeks ago on a cross country trip with a party of college chums, writes of some of his experiences encountered as the result of the severe rains and floods while at Yellowstone National park.

The following is an excerpt from a communication written by him: "I suppose you have read about the nice showers up here that carry away villages, etc. Well, we got caught in one, or rather, ran into the results of one that had missed us as we were on the way out of Yellowstone park. We were at the head of Shoshone canyon, which is at the east entrance to the park. The canyon is about forty miles long and ends at the town of Cody, named after Buffalo Bill, and is dammed to form an immense lake. We had just left a thunder shower in the park and were over the border at 6 p. m. Monday, when we ran into a number of machines halted at a wash across the road. It had just come down but didn't look impossible. So we took it, but had no more than made a turn than there was another one 40 yards long and waist deep, where mud, big boulders, trees, etc., had sluiced down the side canyon and over the road.

Right in the middle was a Chevy rolet up to its boards. We helped muck it out some and then a cow boy from Buffalo Bill's old mountain resort, located a short distance from the place, came along. He doubled a rope to the back axle and lifted it out bodily with a short hitch. We cleaned out a sure rough track and it looked impossible, but a couple of people in a Dodge wanted to get through in a hurry. They hadn't looked over the drift which went around the corner, so I advised one of them to look over some of the larger boulders that might stop him. However, he insisted that if he saw what was over there he might want to try it. That stopped me so they sailed in and the cowboys all yelling "stick with her," as the car bounced all over and finally, by rare luck, got through. The cowboys offered to pull anyone out who tried and got stuck, just to see the fun, for it was sure good.

A few got through but one finally hit wrong and went in to the doors. We camped in the road, as it was useless to go further for the canyon was full of slides and bridges washed out. Next day three cars of us got across the drift, but ran into another waist deep of pure mud and large boulders. We shoveled and muck with a road gang but when we opened her up the road foreman and a ranger told us of bridges out and slides all the way down the canyon. They hadn't seen them, but had word that it would be three or four days at least before we could get down. It would have been an awful pull over a pass 3500 feet if we went back. So, as we had heard there was great scenery ahead, we took the other two Fords and sailed down the canyon. The first thing good was a twenty-foot heavy log bridge gone. We looked her over as hopeless but decided to try her. So four of us set to work and I played chief while we first got two bridge logs thirteen feet long that were spiked together. Then we got two more large logs and I tied them together with bailing wire. We laid them across an eleven foot jump over a lower level and then let the machine over a bank with ropes with the bridge driver and the whole row on the other side. The whole road gang, boss and many spectators had been sitting round laughing at us for fools, but they gave us a cheer and told of worse ahead, but we were on our way and had heard enough crepe "angine." We then worked down the canyon holding cars on slides etc. We drove on until we finally met a gas that had just put the finishing touches on a large bridge. After a rare rough day we finally reached the mouth and rove out the first car that had come through while hundreds hung up at either end or detoured a few hundred miles. We were delayed only a day and sure had a great time. We didn't even put on chains as the old bus is O. K.

At Cody, Wyo., at night, so as to about the town. The service station man just saw the tow marsh and told how he had run the only prohibition agent that had ever come in, up an alley across town after having been shot and then beating the P. A. nearly to death and arrested him for being drunk (the P. A.) and the local court fined him $100 when he came out of the hospital. Just about the time the story was over a bunch of young people came screeching by.

We have been in good weather all the way, but the hottest weather and worst storms are on all sides of us and we sure see plenty of evidence, but have not been put out at all except for the one day.

THE SPIRIT IN THE WHEELS IS EDMONDS' TOPIC

At the Presbyterian church Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, preached upon the work of the Holy Spirit, taking a text from Ezekiel 1:20: "The Spirit of the living creature (life) was in the wheels." An outline follows:

The prophet Ezekiel's ministry, with exiles of his people far away from Jerusalem, was dramatic and pathetic. God showed him by visions the tragic history at home; and he understood that all that was happening was but the framework of God's plan. Three visions he was given, all centering about the work of the Holy Spirit.

In this first vision Ezekiel beheld a whirlwind of fire, in its midst the four marvelous living creatures, Cherubim. One such had been placed to guard Eden behind Adam. Ages later, golden figures of two such were made upon the mercy seat, God's place, in the holy of holies; and they reappear in the Revelation, symbols of the Lord Christ in His mighty workings: the four faces of a lion, ox, eagle, man, represent God's sovereignty, power, omniscience and love, which guide His whole government. Ezekiel saw these four in that wondrous glory, and they were equipped with four marvellous mighty wheels whereby they moved with lightning rapidity, "and there was life in the wheels." Here was life!

Such was the vision with which Ezekiel's call came. Shortly he was given a duty, a message for his people, and his spirit was "Here am I," and he went forth to his life work in the power of the Holy Spirit. Such glory may not be shown to us; but yet it remains to abide in the Christian's life. All depends on how much you yield to Him.

Ezekiel's second vision was of the glory of God departing from the temple in Jerusalem—the cherubim went away. God's pleadings with his people had been in vain. The reason a life is empty and weak is because the Spirit is grieved by all the wrong.

The third vision was of the return of the departed glory. Oh, the return! "Then will I sprinkle clean water upon you, and ye shall be clean." There are three very distinct stages in the promised blessing—the making clean, the indwelling of the Holy Ghost, the victorious living by the Spirit, which is the fruitage, the normal position of the believer, God on the throne.

"four of us set to work and I played chief while we first got two bridge logs thirteen feet long that were spiked together. Then we got two more large logs and I tied them together with bailing wire. We laid them across an eleven foot jump over a lower level and then let the machine over a bank with ropes with the bridge driver and the whole row on the other side. The whole road gang, boss and many spectators had been sitting round laughing at us for fools, but they gave us a cheer and told of worse ahead, but we were on our way and had heard enough crepe "angine." We then worked down the canyon holding cars on slides etc. We drove on until we finally met a gas that had just put the finishing touches on a large bridge. After a rare rough day we finally reached the mouth and rove out the first car that had come through while hundreds hung up at either end or detoured a few hundred miles. We were delayed only a day and sure had a great time. We didn't even put on chains as the old bus is O. K.

At Cody, Wyo., at night, so as to about the town. The service station man just saw the tow marsh and told how he had run the only prohibition agent that had ever come in, up an alley across town after having been shot and then beating the P. A. nearly to death and arrested him for being drunk (the P. A.) and the local court fined him $100 when he came out of the hospital. Just about the time the story was over a bunch of young people came screeching by.

We have been in good weather all the way, but the hottest weather and worst storms are on all sides of us and we sure see plenty of evidence, but have not been put out at all except for the one day.

REV. KRINGEL HAS NOVEL QUESTION AS HIS THEME

Rev. Henry O. Kringel of the Concordia Lutheran congregation delivered a sermon Sunday forenoon on the theme: "Is Christ a King?" as taken from St. John 6: 1-15. The speaker said in part: "In this day of gospel we are told that the people intended to take Jesus by force and make Him a king. The time seemed to be favorable. The Passover was near. From all parts of Judea and from other parts of the world the Jews were flocking to Jerusalem to celebrate the great annual feast which, according to their law, they were required to celebrate in their magnificent temple at the capitol city.

"Thousands among the common people took Jesus for the great prophet of whom Moses had spoken, saying, 'The Lord thy God, will raise up a Prophet unto thee; like unto me, unto Him ye shall hearken.' They looked upon Jesus as the promised Messiah, as the long-expected deliverer, who should restore the glory of the house of Israel. The shame of having been conquered by the Gentiles and being held in bondage by the mighty Romans rested like a gloom upon the whole nation. And since the whole nation was inspired with a fervent desire to cast off the Roman yoke and to be an independent people again, would not the Passover have been the most opportune time to proclaim a king? Is it not very likely that the multitudes coming to Jerusalem to worship would have made an attempt to expel the Roman intruders and hailed with delight the man who should restore the throne of David and Solomon?"

"But what are we told of Christ? When He perceived what the people were about, He departed again into a mountain, Himself alone. He secreted Himself. He did not mean to be the kind of Saviour they expected and desired. He did not mean to be a worldly king. And Christ is the same today, though most men expect of Him something different. The subject therefore, shall be 'Christ a Different Saviour Than Most Men Desire.'"

"He is a Saviour who will never forsake those who trust in Him. He will in some way furnish them all they need for the support of this body and life. He does not promise them riches, not an abundance of goods and earthly possessions. But He will, from His vast stores, supply them with the necessities of life. He, therefore, says to all His followers, 'Take no thought for what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body—what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment? Behold the fowls of the air, for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?'"

But alone and beyond this, He provides for our immortal souls. For all mankind He came into the world to seek and to save those who without His saving grace must have been lost forever. And to this day He rules in His kingdom of grace by His Word, calls and enlightens and sanctifies and preserves in saving faith, though His Spirit and will at the last day raise up me and all the dead, and give unto me and all believers in Christ eternal life."

"This chapter records the first battle between law and grace, resulting in the calling of the only church council recorded in the New Testament. The proud heart of man does not like the idea that he cannot do anything toward saving himself, but that according to God's plan he must be saved by divine grace alone. Many have an idea that professing Christians who fall in their works are 'fallen from grace.' The scriptural definition of the phrase, however, is exactly the opposite. For Paul says in Gal. 5:4 that Christ is become of no effect unto those who are seeking to be justified by the works of the law for they are fallen from grace. A person trying to be saved by works of the law, or to complete his salvation by works, according to Paul has an erroneous conception of grace, for grace means unmerited favor. To fall back on law keeping as essential to salvation is therefore crowding out grace. 'By the deeds of the law therefore shall no flesh be justified in His sight, for by the law is simply the knowledge of sin.'"

"It is strange that some people are still raising this issue which was rightly decided at the Jerusalem council. Certain men came down from Judea to Antioch and taught the church that except they follow certain practices of the Mosaic law, they could not be saved. These erroneous teachers no doubt were very sincere. They have their counter-part in religious teachers today who are just as far wrong concerning the truth. Paul and Barnabas instantly and sharply resisted this church, except they follow the time being wished to honor the rite of circumcision as a long-familiar practice, they had no objection, but they would not stand for this being imposed upon any converts as necessary to salvation. Paul knew that it logically led to other parts of the Mosaic law being brought in as essential, and so he says in Gal. 5:3: 'I testify to every man that is circumcised that he is a debtor to the whole law.' In effect this denied the sufficiency of faith in Christ as the sole and complete condition of salva-

L. A. REALTORS TO TRAVEL NORTH IN MOTORCADE

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 6.—Sacramento will be the objective of one of the most unusual motor caravans in the history of the state when on October 9 automobiles carrying delegates to the nineteenth annual real estate convention of the California Real Estate association will leave the Ambassador hotel with probably a mile of automobiles making up the caravan. The convention will open in Sacramento on the night of October 10 with a grand president's ball.

Preparations are all made by the Sacramento Realtors' association to receive the delegates from Southern California and similar caravans which are expected to converge in Sacramento from other parts of the state at the same time. Fully 1,000 delegates are expected to attend the convention. The 1925 convention, has been accorded the honor of leading the caravan from Los Angeles and promises to have 50 machines in line. Each of the 45 boards in the south have made promises of from two to 50 machines each, insuring a lengthy line.

Passing over the Ridge route the caravan will be feted at Bakersfield by the Kern county realty board. The evening and night will be spent in Fresno, which is also actively campaigning for the next state convention, where a banquet is to be afforded the visitors by the local realty board. The Fresnoans will join the caravan and also delegations from Madera, Merced, Tullock and Modesto. At Stockton the Lodi and Stockton boards will give a joint luncheon, and Sacramento will be reached by dusk. Arriving in Sacramento the visitors will find a warm welcome and a splendid program of entertainment. Some of the features are first state golf tournament; five-minute home town talk; All-Sacramento valley banquet, and entertainment for the women of the convention.

CHEST FOR WINTER THINGS
A folding chest of heavy paper chemically treated to make it moth and insect proof is an excellent arrangement for putting away the winter blankets. When not in use it can be folded flat like an accordion.

Features in Screen Contest

Features of Great Paramount Pictures—Daily Press Motion Picture Contest: Contest is open to all ages and sexes.

Winners will be given contracts for parts in Paramount Pictures.

The contracts call for an engagement over a period of weeks at a substantial salary. Each entrant qualifying to take part in the contest will be given a 50-foot test film for their own use whether they are winners or not.

The winners will be backed in their screen career by substantial publicity support from the Daily Press.

The Witzel Studio, celebrated photographers, will pose each contestant and supply the photographs for publicity purposes.

To secure the necessary credentials to enter the contest see Mr. Mitchell, Room No. 2, Daily Press Building, or the Contest Representative at the Paramount Pictures' beautiful display at the American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exposition at Exposition Park.

In case of a tie equal prizes will be awarded the tying contestant. The contest will end August 10.

GOD STILL REIGNS IN THE WHITE HOUSE AND ALL IS WELL, SAYS HORN

Councilman Speaks of Religious Convictions of President Harding and His Successor at the Head of the Nation

The prayerful life and Christian attitude of Warren G. Harding was the topic by Councilman W. A. Horn, president of the Men's Bible class, in the council chamber at the city hall Sunday morning.

Mr. Horn's remarks to the large number of men present brought out very clearly the late president's strong convictions on these matters.

This country is very fortunate, Mr. Horn said, that Mr. Harding's successor, President Coolidge, is also a prayerful man, who believes that the strength and safety of the United States depends on our prayers and Christian fellowship.

Just before Keith L. Brooks, the class teacher took up the lesson, Mr. U. S. Grant with his French horn, and Mr. Brooks on the trombone, with piano accompaniment, played that beautiful hymn "Face to Face" by Mrs. Frank A. Brack.

"Falling From Grace" was the subject given the 15th chapter of the Book of Acts by Keith L. Brooks, who spoke before the Presbyterian brotherhood Bible class at the city council chambers Sunday morning. He declared the chapter to be one of the most important chapters in ecclesiastical history, and said that a wrong step at this point in the founding of the church would have sacrificed all Christian liberty and would have made Christianity but a Jewish sect. In part he said:

"This chapter records the first battle between law and grace, resulting in the calling of the only church council recorded in the New Testament. The proud heart of man does not like the idea that he cannot do anything toward saving himself, but that according to God's plan he must be saved by divine grace alone. Many have an idea that professing Christians who fall in their works are 'fallen from grace.' The scriptural definition of the phrase, however, is exactly the opposite. For Paul says in Gal. 5:4 that Christ is become of no effect unto those who are seeking to be justified by the works of the law for they are fallen from grace. A person trying to be saved by works of the law, or to complete his salvation by works, according to Paul has an erroneous conception of grace, for grace means unmerited favor. To fall back on law keeping as essential to salvation is therefore crowding out grace. 'By the deeds of the law therefore shall no flesh be justified in His sight, for by the law is simply the knowledge of sin.'"

"It is strange that some people are still raising this issue which was rightly decided at the Jerusalem council. Certain men came down from Judea to Antioch and taught the church that except they follow certain practices of the Mosaic law, they could not be saved. These erroneous teachers no doubt were very sincere. They have their counter-part in religious teachers today who are just as far wrong concerning the truth. Paul and Barnabas instantly and sharply resisted this church, except they follow the time being wished to honor the rite of circumcision as a long-familiar practice, they had no objection, but they would not stand for this being imposed upon any converts as necessary to salvation. Paul knew that it logically led to other parts of the Mosaic law being brought in as essential, and so he says in Gal. 5:3: 'I testify to every man that is circumcised that he is a debtor to the whole law.' In effect this denied the sufficiency of faith in Christ as the sole and complete condition of salva-

"The final speech was made by James, who appealed to prophecy to show that God's plan included a dispensation in which He should take out a people simply through faith in His only begotten Son. He showed that this age of taking out would come to an end and that it would be followed by the fulfillment of many prophecies concerning the Jews and their land. He agrees with Peter and Paul that the Jews in this age should not be troubled with bondage to the Jewish law, and proposed the sending forth of a letter from the council declaring the unanimous decision. Many at this late date have not learned the lesson of the Jerusalem council and are still upsetting many whom Christ's finished work has set free by trying to tie them up to the old legalities and the observance of days and rites. Because of this issue which continued to confront Paul, he was led to write his Galatian letter which is a divine treatise on this matter. In it he shows that the true believer is saved once for all by the operation of the Holy Spirit, and that while good works will be the inevitable fruit of the redeemed life, the visible evidence of justification by faith, we receive this life by the free gift of God and do not earn it by anything that we can do."

IN MEMORIAL, PRESIDENT HARDING, AUG. 2, 1923

Gone from the old world's hurly-burly,
Gone from its fretting troubles and strife,
You have passed beyond the portal
To a better, brighter life.
And though a nation's heart may ache
And the tears of a nation flow,
The good Lord giveth and taketh away.
'Tis well with you we know.
No more heart aches, no more tears,
No more trembling doubts and fears.
In the circle of light and love,
Rest in peace with God above.
—By Phil Shelton, Casa Verdugo.

SPOT THE FOLLOWING:
1. Simple Arithmetic!
"When a man is all in, how much is he out?"
On this property he would be IN, $90 a month OUT, $65

Because it has a house and a houselet on it rented NOW at $55 and $35; and the payments are but $65.

The Price?
Only $7000; and just $1500 of it down!

2. Good Buy!
In the direction of Oak Ridge, but nearer Brand, A pelating five-room stucco house, on a level lot, 55 feet wide and 250 feet deep. Other terms: $3850—$1500—$50, inclusive of interest.

3. Among the Hill Folk
Nobody looks down on Glendale but the Hill Folk! Come up and see Glendale Heights—in the hills nearest Los Angeles.

There's a sunny, airy, enticing five-room house there with an area of 1240 sq. ft. and a price of only $6500, or $1500—$50, inclusive. There's a new stucco—easy to gaze at—for $6800—$1200—$55, inclusive. There's also a bottled and superbly finished stucco perched on the shoulder of a hill, where nothing can obstruct the view, and the view is like a million dollars; but this beautiful place is only $8500—$2000 of it in hand and but $50 or $60 a month, inclusive of interest.

Our treatments are the same as used by the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium of Battle Creek, Michigan, and consist of diet, exercise, massage, electric light baths, salt glows, hot applications, hot and cold sprays, galvanic and sinusoidal electricity. The laboratories are equipped with fine X-ray machines with the latest stereoscopic improvements.

The efficient methods of treating the sick, combined with a scientific knowledge of the preparations and combinations of foods used in a vegetarian, or so-called non-flesh dietary, gives the patient a well-balanced course of treatment.

JAP STUDENTS ARE RESTIVE

By CLARENCE DUBOSE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
TOKYO (by mail to United Press).—Strikes and rioting among Japanese students have been becoming more frequent and serious recently.

Government officials, newspapers and leaders in almost every field are wondering whether "new Japan" is going to kick out of the traces altogether.

Students of one of the big religious universities of Tokyo recently mobbed their president, wrecked his office, beat him up thoroughly, forced him to sign a resignation couched in humiliating terms and made the resignation stick. The university has a new president and the students have consented to resume their studies.

It is almost a daily occurrence for various groups of university students in Tokyo to hold "free speech" meetings, with large crowds in attendance. They speak freely, too, and they fight the cops to do so, if necessary—as it often is.

Universities Under Guard
Heavy reserves of police are now guarding three Tokyo universities and plain-clothes detectives are trailing hundreds of students who are ringleaders in the ultra-independence movement that has swept the Japanese university-student world like wildfire.

The whole thing seems to be merely the reaction of the youth of a people, bound always heretofore by restrictions and conventions of extreme rigidity, and now for the first time learning something of what liberty and democracy mean—and perhaps confusing them with license. They're simply feeling their oats—the hundreds of thousands of students in Japan—and most of 'em are kicking around all over the pasture like a lot of wild colts. But chances are they'll stay in the lot all right—after ramming up and down and kicking down the fences.

"Strikes" of Japanese students against professors whom they do not like have been common in this country for some time. A class in mathematics, for example, will hold a mass meeting, decide the professor is unsatisfactory (for whatever the reason may be) and go on strike, refuse to attend class, until that professor is removed or until he corrects whatever it is to which the students object.

That sort of thing has happened many times all over Japan in recent years. But nothing before has happened like the Tokyo university riot in Tokyo where students wrecked the president's office, beat him, and forced him to resign. Tokyo is one of the largest Buddhist educational institutions and all the students are prospective priests.

The trouble there followed upon the heels of the Waseda university fracas, where students hooted and drove away the vice minister of war and high army and naval officers, who wanted to lecture them on military training. And both these affairs have been followed by "free speech" meetings of students and free fights with the police all over Tokyo.

It's a great life for Japanese university men these days.

BEYOND

There's a light in the dark
You can see if you will;
There's a meadow that's green
It's just over the hill;
There are flowers out there
Where the road seems to end,
And a jewel you'll find
In the heart of a friend.

There's a treasure awaits
At the turn of the road,
There's a place you may rest
And may lay down the load;
A bit more of gray
And the skies will be blue,
And the place is not far
Where the dreams all come true.

There's a dear heart and fond
You shall find ere too long;
On the pathways beyond
There's a smile and a song.
If the day shall be sad
We shall rise with the dawn,
And the new day be glad,
And with faith we'll go on.

There's a place we shall rest
From the wind and the storm,
There are hearts that are kind,
There are hands that are warm.
There's the glad light of hope
We may see if we will,
So let us strive on,
Joy's just over the hill.

ART FOLKS HEAR OF CALIFORNIA ARTISTS SUNDAY

One of the largest meetings the Glendale Art club has held, assembled Sunday afternoon at the public library to hear an address on California artists by Mrs. Julia Steelman Nichols and to see the exceptionally fine collection of pictures which is on exhibit this month.

Miss Annie McIntyre presided in the absence of Mrs. Roy Ballagh who is at her summer home in Laguna, and introduced the speaker. Mrs. Nichols talked in a general way about California artists and about what to look for in a picture. To emphasize the points made, she reviewed the pictures on exhibit, calling attention to the balance, perspective, distance, etc., the talk being very interesting and instructive.

The picnic to which the club is invited at Laguna Beach, August 25, was announced. L. T. Rowley will arrange for transportation for all who care to attend. The picnicers are to assemble at the public library at 7 a. m. the morning of the 25th, and they will meet Mrs. Ballagh at Laguna, in front of the art gallery.

Announcement was also made of the fact that the present collection of pictures will be on display for several weeks and the public is invited to inspect them whenever the library is open.
